

To Whom It May Concern,

I am appalled to hear of yet another attempt by "big corporate media" to seek protection for a monopoly on bussiness. The corporate ISP's such as QWEST do not need an exemption from regulations that require them to allow independent ISP's to operate. If my choice of ISP is taken from me and I am left with Qwest, AOL, or MSN, who protects me from these companies' desire to fix pricing and force me to pay what they decide? If I am not satisfied with their service and the cost, what recourse do I have? These measures will force the independent, and more responsive companies, out of bussiness; and will leave the consumer without adequate protection. I URGE YOU NOT TO GRANT THE EXEMPTIONS THESE COMPANIES ARE SEEKING.
